EFFICIENT SHORTLISTING

ERPbyW HRMS enables organisations to continue making use of their regular job advertisement strategies; and only enhances the process by providing a resume submission feature that accepts job applications, and lets the recruiter efficiently shortlist candidates.

The process begins with a job advertisement, which as already mentioned does not change from the regular processes of the organisation. The advertisement contains all the job specifications with a condition for submission of the resume added which points to our system at http://hrm-byw.rhcloud.com .

Job advertisements almost always contain an email address for submission of applications, and that is how applicants usually submit their resumes, therefore making use of the system effectively replaces the email address for submission.

Applications received via regular email address cannot be sorted in any way to filter those that are most relevant to the available job, and recruiters usually rely on cover letters to shortlist, which we all know can be excellent until the curriculum vitae is reviewed.

Our system enables recruiters to filter applications by the specific requirements of the available job, ensuring that the right candidate up to very finest detail is selected.

For more information about our system, please contact us as below;

Wandile Nxumalo
00268 76242698
erpbyw@gmail.com
wandile177@gmail.com